GENERAL VESSEL INFORMATION:

2022:

Sharma's shipowning unit highly active in the S&P markets

Tanker secondhand prices have been on a tear for the past few months. One canny watcher of these price movements has been Anil Sharma, who has decided to cash in on some of the recent asset appreciation.

Best known for his ship recycling activities at Global Marketing Systems (GMS), Sharma also controls Lila Shipping, a fast growing shipowning unit based in Dubai.

Another notable recent deal involves the Bohai-built Lila Guangzhou, a suezmax that has just fetched $23m, having joined Sharma's fleet in late March for $16.5m.

Russian crude cargo stuck on elderly tanker for months off new Ghana refinery

Hong Kong-owned Snow Lotus arrived at the new Sentuo refinery in February

30 May 2024 10:49 GMT UPDATED 30 May 2024 11:52 GMT

Vessel tracking data shows a veteran suezmax tanker has been waiting off Ghana's new refinery for months with a cargo of Russian crude.

Information from analytics company Kpler shows the 159,000-dwt Snow Lotus (built 2004) arrived off the port of Tema to discharge oil for the Sentuo plant in February.

The Snow Lotus is fully laden with Varandey crude from Lukoil's Kola floating storage and offloading unit in the Arctic.

Varandey is produced from the Timan-Pechora oilfields.

The Panama-flagged tanker's insurer is not known. The ship is the former Lila Guangzhou, sold by Lila Global in 2022.

Ships Still Switch Russian Oil Off Greece Despite Navy Drills

Earlier in July, the vessel Snow Lotus unloaded Urals onto another tanker, NARCISCUS which then discharged at India later. The cargo transfer took place at the same pathway between the two military zones. Another tanker named ARLAN carrying Urals has just arrived near the Laconian Gulf, and appears likely to transfer its cargo onto supertanker ALMA. Source : Bloomberg
