GENERAL VESSEL INFORMATION:

Two Panama-registered container ships collided on Tuesday, causing an oil spill off the port city in Northeast China's Liaoning Province. The ship SINOKOR TIANJIN was on its way from Dalian to Qingdao in Shandong Province when it collided with another ship DAINTY RIVER two miles southeast to the Dayaowan Container Port. The oil tank of the DAINTY RIVER was damaged. The collision caused the leakage of over 100 tons of light diesel oil from the tank. Fences and felts were laid to prevent the spread of the oil. Now the work to clear the oil is under way.
