Jork-based managers hit by failures of KG boxships

Woes afflicting the feeder containership market continue, with nearly half the fleets of two Jork-based managers falling into the hands of the receivers. The KG (limited partnership) funds that owned the 803-teu SKIRNER, SKYNDIR, SLEIPNER, SLIDUR, SIPALL, JORK RELIANCE and JORK RULER (all built between 2005 and 2007), are facing liquidation.

Fund manager HCI Capital confirms that preliminary insolvency proceedings have begun and expects the vessels may be sold in 2015. But the shipmanagers are working on a financing scheme to get them back into their possession, claiming the insolvency petition has been forced upon them by mortgage provider HSH Nordbank.

"Becker and Kahrs are working on a special form of financing to get the vessels back in their property... together with the previous KG shareholders," the companies said in the statement.
